Chairman's Note

By the time you read this Newsletter Sutton U3A will nearly have completed another successful year of trips and outings. You will read later on in this Newsletter the reports on our recent visits to Portsmouth in July, Strawberry Hill House in August and, in particular, the Loseley Park outing in June which began in a very unusual way - you can never say our outings are dull.

At our Committee Meeting in June it was decided that Sutton U3A should take a more proactive approach to publicising ourselves. The U3A in general has long been regarded as a well-kept secret and we are hoping that this new approach will result in more semi-retired and retired people in Sutton and the surrounding locality being made aware of what we have to offer. You will see on pages 7 & 8 the report on our first two promotional ventures and what we experienced.

Shirley Ellerbeck, our Website & Email Manager, is in the process of updating our website which is our "shop window" for attracting new members, in addition to keeping existing members up to date with events, both in our own Branch and nationally. If there are any members who have not notified Shirley of their email address, or who perhaps have recently acquired a new email address, please do let her know.

Our Coffee mornings to welcome new members continue to be very popular and we had 14 at our last one, which was held at the Oasis Café at Trinity Church in August.

Our new Constitution, which we have been working on for the last few months, was finalised recently and submitted to U3A Head Office and I am pleased to report that it was accepted. However, we now have to obtain the approval of the Charity Commission and the new Constitution was sent to them a couple of weeks ago. When we receive approval we will be able to present it to members.

Since the last newsletter I have contacted the Committees of our neighbouring U3A's – Merton, Banstead, Epsom and Croydon with regard to having a mutually beneficial arrangement between them and Sutton, so that we can advise each other about undersubscribed outings, etc. The feedback I received from them all was that they were happy to go ahead with this arrangement and I feel that it will be to our advantage in the future.

That's all for now and I hope you are all enjoying the really warm weather we are having at the moment - it is so nice we will have the lovely colours of Autumn coming soon. I look forward to seeing some of you at one of our next General Meetings.

PREDICAMENT FOR THE LOSELEY PARK OUTING

On Thursday, 26th June, we made very good time travelling to Loseley Park and we were going to be early. The driver took the turning into Loseley and immediately realised it was the wrong one.

He drove off the track onto the grass verge to do a three-point turn but he got firmly stuck in the soft ground – couldn't move forwards or backwards! He tried all sorts for the wheels to get a grip and go over the hidden kerb but it wouldn't budge. What to do? I telephoned Loseley to inform them of our quandary and suddenly our group were rescued by a cavalcade of cars and the coach was pulled free by a tractor.

We were slightly late, but thanks to the Loseley staff the day went beautifully.

Loseley House is lovely – just to see it from the outside is wonderful – and we were given a guided tour which gave us the history and little snippets of information.

We then had a summer buffet lunch of ham, coronation chicken and roast potato which was delicious. And we could go for more – if we had room for it. The round tables were set beautifully. I think everybody enjoyed it.

We then spent the afternoon looking round the extensive gardens and grounds in the sunshine and many of us enjoyed a famous Loseley ice cream.

I think the problems of the morning added a fillip to the day, especially as they were so quickly and easily sorted out. The embarrassed driver apologised for his mistake before starting the journey home.

PORTSMOUTH TRIP – 26TH JULY

"Oh, to go down to the sea again" said the poet John Masefield, and so on a bright sunny day we set off via the M25 ... and reached Portsmouth about mid-day!

Some went off to explore Gunwharf (and to shop!) and the Spinnaker Tower, but most headed to the Historic Dockyard; lunch in the cafés beckoned some, ice cream lured others!

'The Victory' sparkled in the sun, and all those ramps and walkways were a good test of fitness, but worth it to reach Nelson's cabin. The iron-clad Warrior loomed impressively.

The Mary Rose Museum was stunning, and gave a clear idea of the ship and how it was organised. Viewing windows on each floor showed at what level you would have been on the ship, whilst the display opposite showed which activities took place there, what was stowed there, who worked there, and their equipment. The number and variety of artefacts recovered was amazing - huge cannons and piles of cannonballs, the surgeon's instruments, the carpenter's tools, storage vessels and barrels, cooking pots and the brick oven! And finally, a huge collection of gold and silver plate - the Captain lived in style! And yes, we did say "Hello" to Hodge - the ship's dog!

Just time to grab a few postcards and run for the coach - and home via the M25 ... again! So a big "Thank You" to Carol Stevens for organising a great day out - and our letter of complaint to the coach company about our sojourns on the M25!

Part of the cannon recovered from the Mary Rose – detail shows the Tudor rose and a lion's head.

STRAWBERRY HILL HOUSE – 19TH AUGUST

On Tuesday 19th August a combined group of U3A members from the Antique and Photograph groups visited Strawberry Hill House in Twickenham. The combined group was to ensure that there were enough members to enable us to have a guided tour. Our guide for the house was excellent.

The house originally belonged to Horace Walpole (1717-1797) who was the son of Robert Walpole, prime minister from 1721 - 1742, but the house is now maintained by the Strawberry Hill Trust.

The style of the house is Gothic, based on medieval cathedrals, whereas the trend at the time was to build in the Classical style. Horace built the house to contain his vast collection of art, antiquities and curiosities of every period from ancient to modern.

Sadly the whole collection was sold in 1842 by the Seventh Earl Waldegrave to cover his debts. The sale lasted thirty days, each sale piece was catalogued and a note was made of who purchased them. The Trust is trying to find the original pieces to either purchase or have faithful replicas made.

The house became a tourist attraction in Walpole's lifetime. He only allowed four visitors a day, no children, and the housekeeper frequently showed them around while Walpole retired to his cottage in the grounds.

When the house was first built the River Thames was visible across a water meadow, but this land was sold and houses erected. Mature trees now screen these houses.

HENRY MOORE FOUNDATION – FRIDAY 15TH AUGUST

On a very cloudy morning, we set off for the Henry Moore Foundation at Perry Green in Hertfordshire. We made very good time on the main roads, but once on the twisty country lanes we could understand why only small coaches were allowed! The shop/office consisted of a small brick cottage, whilst the Moore home and studios were across the road through the village.

After a welcoming coffee we went off to visit “Hoglands”, the Moore’s 16th century home; two cottages knocked into one with a modern extension to create a large living room. This is full of interesting, tactile objects, African masks and beautiful paintings. The older part of the house is homely and comfortable with more paintings, objet d’art, antiques and curtains made from fabric designed by Henry Moore. Outside there is a small rose garden and an imposing herbaceous border, plus greenhouses full of cacti. Time for a sit down and picnic luncheon.

Then we set off to explore the parkland with two enthusiastic and knowledgeable guides. Henry Moore sculptures are studded about on the gently sloping lawns – and in the field full of ewes and lambs! The model studio, where maquettes were made, the open-air plaster workshop, and the wonderful ancient barn housing tapestries, were all much admired. The current exhibition of work by contemporary artists (including Damien Hirst’s cows) was not so admired!

Just time to peek in the shop, then scramble onto the bus for home.

PUBLICITY EVENTS

As the two events I am going to report on were our first ventures into the field of promoting Sutton U3A, firstly we had to acquire the “props” we needed. After much research on the internet we purchased a white gazebo (3m x 3m) which also had back and side panels in case of bad weather. We must have had a premonition about this, as you will see later. We also purchased two camping tables - surprisingly all these came in carrying cases which were very useful. Two large U3A signs had been made for the outside of the gazebo and Maggs Sandilands made a really lovely inside banner.

So all we had to do was to be able to erect everything properly without it falling down on people! We had a dummy run beforehand in the parking area of where I live and found it took us 30 mins. So, on to our first two ventures.....

Carshalton Environmental Fair – Bank Holiday Monday, 25th August

We arrived there in heavy rain but with our band of friendly helpers we managed to put everything up in 25 minutes, so we were getting better. We watched the rain and waited inside our gazebo and were convinced that no-one was going to venture out in this awful weather.....but surprisingly we obtained 27 names and contact details of potential members who were interested in receiving details of Sutton U3A. We started at 10.30 and were supposed to stay at our pitch until 6pm but with the rain getting heavier and heavier many of the other stall-holders started to pack up at 4pm. So I left the others packing up and went to get my car which was parked on the perimeter of the park – I did not realise that with all the rain it was a mudbath and everyone was getting stuck. After about 15 minutes I managed to get moving, but others were not so lucky and had to call out the RAC/AA. We all heaved a sigh of relief when everything was loaded into my car. Our first venture was definitely a baptism of mud! It took days to dry everything out!

Smiling through the Rain at the Carshalton Environmental Fair!

The Big Event (SCOLA) at Manor Park, Saturday 6th September

The gods must have been looking down on us – that day was a lovely sunny day. We had everything ready in under 20 minutes – the atmosphere in the park was very lively with a lot of different activities going on as well as other attractive stalls. We managed to get 19 people who were interested in receiving information about our U3A, so that was excellent.

A big “thank you” to everyone on the Committee and other members who helped on both occasions. We look forward to many more events like these in the coming years and more people learning about the U3A and Sutton U3A in particular.

Obituaries

We are sorry to announce the passing of Victor Jordan. He was an RAF pilot during the war, later becoming a barrister and acted as an adviser to the United Nations. He was much travelled. He leaves a widow, two daughters and three grandchildren.

Although Victor belonged to our U3A Sutton History Group for only about two years, he was a highly popular member of the group, who had given two excellent talks - one on Afghanistan and one on English Law. He was about to give us a talk on Music Hall when he sadly died. At his memorial service at St John's Belmont, the church was full.

IngaTrott also sadly passed in June, aged 94. Inga was born in Austria but fled from the Nazis to England, just before the outbreak of WWII.

She was a founder member of Sutton U3A in 1986, together with Frank Gilbert and others. She was very interested in and knowledgeable about classical music and was one of the founder members of the first Classical Music Group of Sutton U3A

Inga was married to Nigel Trott, now deceased, who was a Consultant at the Royal Marsden Hospital. She leaves one daughter.
